ELBA GROWS—Records in the Probate office show the following number of state and county private licenses issued for Elba and vicinity:

Licenses issued in 1934. 196
Licenses issued in 1933. 208

This is a gain of 12 licenses, which means that Elba and vicinity have 12 new business firms. Mr. says Elba is not getting better and bigger?

CLEAN UP—In connection with Arbor Day, December 7, the Chamber of Commerce, at its banquet held at the school house Tuesday night, agreed to cooperate with the Study Club in a cleanup campaign. On Arbor Day everybody is requested and urged to join in this movement to make our city more beautiful and attractive. A special effort will be made to remove some of the ugly trash heaps, "home-yards," etc., which detract from the beauty of our fair city. Everyone is also asked to plant at least one tree or shrub on Arbor Day. Mrs. J. F. Brunson, chairman of the Study Club's committee on conservation, making strenuous efforts to bring Elba to the forefront of Alabama communities in the great state-wide movement to conserve and beautify.

Why the Sudden
Change to Liquid
Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxative. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" one day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The above caution may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on sewn natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is obtainable at all druggists.

JOHN FRANK MOSELEY,
Reporter of N. Brockton Chapter.

COLD WINTER—"Uncle" Wiley Bullard is convinced that we are in for an unusually cold winter this time. He bases his prognostications on the great numbers of wild geese that he has observed flying South. Mr. Bullard says he has not seen or heard such vast numbers of geese flying over our city during the past few days. I'll admit that it is a pretty good sign, but then you know, "all signs fail in line of dry weather." Ernest Owen's squirrel signs failed last winter and let us this blooded fellow hope that "Uncle" Wiley's goose sign will follow suit.

ALMOST HERE—We have been hearing for so long about the prosperity that is just around the corner, but it must be almost here. E. M. McCollough's friends say he is seriously considering trading in his old car for a brand new one and that is a sure sign that prosperity is right upon us. Some of said friends are worrying as to how Ran can afford to run a new car into the swamps and other inconceivable places to which he is accustomed to going on his "possum and other variant hunt." Mr. McCollough is contemplating getting a "bull yearling" and going into the wood business and that he may postpone trading for his new car until the profits from his wood venture accumulate.

CHEERING—How refreshing it is to meet a person who has gone through great bodily pain and is left in a seriously crippled condition, but is still cheerful and looks on the bright side of life. Such a person is Ott Flowers, who recently came here from the Jacksonville community and is operating a shoe repair shop in the Percina building. Mr. Flowers has probably suffered as much pain as any man since the days of Job and is terribly crippled, but it is a real pleasure to bask in the radiance of the really smile and cheerful words with which he greets his friends and customers. It puts to shame the grumblings and fault-finding of many of us who have never undergone any severe bodily ailment.

SHAMEFUL—Quite a number of Elba football fans attended the Auburn-Georgia football game at Columbus last Saturday. No less an authority than Bud Comer pronounced it a good game, although his favorites were soundly thrashed by a score of 10 to 0. The sad part of the affair, according to report, was the indiscriminate drinking and drunkenness on the part of men, women, boys and girls that were evident on every hand. One gentleman from Elba remarked: "I don't believe I will ever attend a bad football game again." Drinking at football games is becoming alarming in its magnitude and threatens the very life of the otherwise great college sport. Something should be done at once to curb the nefarious practice. Otherwise, the game's days of popularity are numbered.

RUTH WINDHAM HOSTESS TO SUNBEAM BAND

The Sunbeam Band met at the home of Ruth Windham Friday afternoon. Charles Clark presided over the meeting. The program was conducted by Ruth Windham, with prayer by Frances Amos Morrow. A story, "The Little Is Such A Lovely Color," was told by Katherine Mullins, after which Robert L. Whitman read Psalm 211, which tells what God thinks about the heart of man. "For there is no respect of persons with God." The hymn, "At The Cross," was sung in unison, led by Frances Amos Morrow. Afterwards, she gave the verse, "The Bible." A vocal quartet was sung by Frances Amos Morrow, Katherine Mullins, Ruth Windham, Charles Clark and Robert L. Whitman. The program was concluded with sentence prayer, opened by Charles Clark and closed by Ruth Windham.

At the social hour the band was entertained with readings by Katherine Mullins, Frances Amos Morrow, Peggy Blue, Jeanette Lee and Ruth Windham. A vocal quartet was sung by Margaret Whitman and Frances Butwell. Miss Henrietta Costen came down from Troy and spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Costen.

PINK CORN WORMS CAUSING DAMAGES

Pink corn worms are playing havoc with corn in a number of localities in North Alabama, reports Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Experiment Station, who has received complaints of damage from several farmers and county agents.

"Fumigation is by far the most common method of controlling this pest," Robinson said. "When a farmer fumigates his crib of corn he not only destroys the pink corn worms and moths but he also kills all of other insects, such as corn weevils."

The best time to fumigate is during warm weather when the temperature is 65 to 70 degrees F. Of the many different fumigants used to control pests in stored products, carbon disulphide ("high test") is perhaps the most satisfactory. This material is a clear liquid that volatilizes rapidly, forming a heavy gas which penetrates well into piles of stored seed. It is both effective and economical. Carbon disulphide has the disadvantage, however, of being highly inflammable. Its vapors, when mixed with air, are violent explosive.

The amount of carbon disulphide needed to kill insects varies considerably, depending upon the tightness of the fumigation chamber. In a practically airtight bin 1,000 cubic feet of content is sufficient. The average tongue-and-groove crib in Alabama, designed especially for fumigation, requires 8 to 10 pounds for each 1,000 cubic feet. In many cribs 15 to 20 pounds must be used for the same amount of space, if fumigation is possible at all.

A booklet on controlling insects in stored grains may be obtained free by seeing the county agent or writing Professor Robinson at Auburn.
